IN COOPERATION WITH

Learn about building within the new benchmark for green construction, the National Green Building Standard—the first and only green building rating system approved by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI).

Both of the following courses are required for the NAHB Certified Green Professional designation, however, the courses can be taken individually if you are not seeking the designation or are taking one of the courses on another occasion.

Green Building for Building Professionals: Incorporate green building principles into home building, remodeling, and other construction projects—without driving up the cost! Gain a solid background in green building methods, as well as tools to reach consumers with green solutions. December 2-3

Business Management for Building Professionals: Overcome common business management problems and improve your business and personnel operations—using the business practices, tips, and tools that give the edge to industry leaders. December 4

CEUs FOR ARCHITECTS: These two courses are certified by the AIA for continuing education credits: Green Building for Building Professionals (12 AIA/CES), Business Management for Building Professionals (6 AIA/CES).

INSTRUCTOR FOR BOTH COURSES: For over 30 years, John Barrow's company has completed historic renovation, remodeling, and new construction projects on the East End of Long Island and in the resort areas of Nantucket, Hilton Head, and the Adirondacks. John has incorporated Green Building principles since before they were recognized as being "Green!"
